Redeeming invalid banknotes: Case number: 20038045 and 20050832

Dear Sirs,

acting on behalf of my Principal - 79th Element Sp. z o.o., basing on power of attorney, I herein lodge a complaint in case of redeeming invaild banknotes (case numer 20038045 and 20050832).

Mr Adam Slomski, acting as a chairman of the board of 79th Element Sp. z o.o. on June 15th, 2016 has filed the motion to redeem 25.000,00 SEK. The motion has been registered under number 20038045. On September 16th 16, 2016 my Principal has filed second to redeem invalid banknotes in amount of 60.145,00 SEK. This another motion has been registered under numer 20050832.

Mr. Slomski has attached following documents to the both of motions: copy od passport, information about previous owner of the banknotes and company certificate from National Court Register with English translation. Mr. Adam Slomski has questioned Mr. Johan Fransoon many times about any other documents that are needed for the case. Up to this day my Principal hasn't got any information/request about other needed documents nor he hasn't receive payment for invalid banknotes.

Company 79th Element Sp. z o.o. has delivered all needed documents as well as company has sent to Riksbank invaild banknotes in total amount of 85.145,00 SEK. Company 79th Element Sp. z o.o. is conducting business activity in Poland and she's uising anti-money laundering (AML) and know your customer (KYC) procedures. According to the information featured on Riksbank's website the process of redeeming invaild banknotes shall take up to two weeks. Duration of my Client's cases is already 4 months.

According to the Riksbank's regulations (RGFS 2015:1) on the redemption of banknotes and coins:
Article 1 The Riksbank will redeem damaged genuine banknotes on condition that the Riksbank deems that there is no reason to assume that a) the banknote derives from a crime or criminal activity b) the banknote is being redeemed to conceal the fact it derives from a crime or criminal activity, or c) the banknote has been submitted by a person who is not the rightful owner or a representative of the rightful owner.
The Riksbank will redeem banknotes 1. for the full amount if at least two-thirds of the entire banknote remains intact, or 2. for half the amount if less than two-thirds, but more than one-third, of the entire banknote remains intact.

Article 4 The Riksbank will redeem notes that are no longer legal tender in accordance with the provisions stipulated in Article 1, first paragraph.

In view of my Client, there is no justified and rightful suspicions because company 79th Element Sp. z o.o. is conducting legal business activity in Poland for many years and has already explained to Riksbank from whom she get objective banknotes.

Taking above into account the total amount of 85.145,00 SEK shall be immediately paid to my Client on his bank account indicated in both motions.

Please point out the exact date when value of invalid banknotes sent to Riksbank by 79th Element Sp. z o.o. will be paid on my Clients account.
